

Tucker MacIntyre

N3_ZeroDivisors

A simple test to determine whether a particular element of Z_m is a zero divisor, is to simply determine the greatest common factor between that particular element and the value m . If the greatest common factor is equal to a value other than 1, then this should be a zero divisor.